SOME THINGS

THAT ARE

MYSTERIOUS.

Were we called upon to describe some objects or persons as they appear to us we would entitle the subject thus, Extravagant in Everything But the Trath: Or thus,

The Ancient Philosopher of Kalamazoo and His Sacred White Elephant.

Do the people ever reflect upon the chaff that is thrown before them every day in the shape of newspaper advertising? Some concerns who imagine themselves the very essence of truth and veracity do make the most ridiculous assertions. We often wonder if the public sees these things as we do, filling columns of valuable space with self-praise. Every intelligent person knows the importance of egotism. The Golden Eagle started out with principles that should govern every well-reguthat should govern every well-regu-lated business house—samely, to sell Clothing for Men and Boys at "One Price," and that as low as such goods can be sold for; to sell our wares for what they are; to not misrepresent under any circumstance. For this we ask no thanks from our patrons, be-cause it is a duty we owe to them and

Our stock embraces everything that can be found in any first-class clothing establishment, among them twenty different styles of Sults at $10, both Sack and Four-Button Cutaway. Amajority of these are all-wool and all of them reliable. Some houses charge $12 and $15 for same goods. Our $12, $15, $10.50, $13, $20, $23, $25, $30, and $35 Men's Suits are endless in magnitude, that line of Overcoats comprises every-thing in that line from $8 to $40. Life s too short to enumerate more exten sively. Our Boys' and Children's De-partment in Suits and Overcoats is as extensive as the balance of our stock. For further particulars we refer you to

Golden Eagle CLOTHING COMPANY,

No. 400, Cor. 7th and D Sts. J. M. GRADY Manager. AN ADVERTISING STORY.

As Told by a Sick Man. Seeing my quivering form my employer. advised me to go home, but with the remark: "How about the REPUBLICAN advertiscment:" I rashly volunteered to write it at home and send it around. Receiving b lef notes and sscriffeing 5 cents on ear fare I soon found myself home; and shortly within reach were grapes, food lemonade, hot whisky, quinine pills, and a bottle marked No. 10. This unhappy combination produced fever, and this part of the advertisement was written with a throbbing brow and disturbed mind. A glance at my notes showed me that I had to advertise Birds. Poor martyrs to fashion," thought I. Why are women so eruel and why is my employer so foolish to keep them." Howover, he argues (and I find I can't find a reply), "Fashion is a tyrant which greater than he bows before." I can say for my employer that these poor birds are no source of profit-they are so frall, and so many of our fair patrons are so unsympathetic, that they handle them as they would their "very best friends," And the season is so short. My notes tell me to reduce 10-cent wings to 7 cents; 25 cent wings to 19 cents; 49 cent wings and birds to 39 cents; and then comes a long list of finer unfortunate birds also reduced in price. By the way, let me recommend iced lemonade for fever. I fee much better, and in a sufficiently buoyant state of mind to come to the conclusion that pulling plumes from ostriches' trails sn't cruel. They grow again, you know. The notes say: "The ostrich feather tips we sell are all in one piece." What differ ence that makes is not stated. Mixed colors seemed to be new, for this is the first time I think, I have had to quote "mixed tips." Of course, the buyer writes down they are worth 98 cents, but our price is 68 cents My headache is not cured, so I withdraw the recommendation of demonade, and think, also, it is footish to say your goods are worth so much more than others.

would advise some inquiry concerning those mixed tips. Now comes Warm Skirts. I don't blame ladies for not buying them-

the heat is terrible. Just fancy drinking iced lemonade in November. I have an other reason why we have so many warm

skirts, and I quote it because I like to find

you know, I can't be blamed when an error

to the door of the old store-everybody saw them as they came to-and we sold lots They were ordered back in the new store, with the cloak stock. Being so busy with cloaks the skirts are not thought of, and the consequence is, prices have to be reduced. The 68-cept Melton cloth skirts are to go for 40 cents. Black and blue striped flannel skirts are marked down from 95 to 89 cents. Then comes a long list of fine satiaand flannel skirts. Some, I notice, are motre silk. The list is long and I am tired. Please walk back to a dark corner in the closk room to day and I think you will find reunine bargains.

I must say for the "Palais Royal" gloves -they are reliable. I don't know whether it is the gloves, or the pretty girls who try them on, but we do a tremendous business in men's gloves. Silks are the last on the list, and-by jove, confound it! What in the d-1 shall I do? I forgot to see the slik buyer, and I have no notes. Happy thought! The Ecening Star Hes twinkling on the floor, and I cut out our advertisement and save time and thought. The following was in yesterday's Eccuring Star, and the silk buyer, Mr. C. O. Upton, pledges his word to the truth of each statement-I
